Court summons Gayatri Prajapati in money laundering DA case

OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

LUCKNOW, SEPT 7/--/A special PMLA court here has issued summons to former Uttar Pradesh cabinet minister Gayatri Prajapati to face trial in a money laundering case linked to possession of alleged disproportionate assets, saying he was the "ultimate beneficiary" of assets acquired out of the proceeds of crime.

In an order issued on Monday by the special Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) court of sessions judge Sarvesh Kumar, Prajapati has been asked to depose before it on October 4. The zonal office of the Enforcement Directorate (ED) had filed a charge sheet, also called the prosecution complaint under various sections of the PMLA, against Prajapati and others in April. The agency has been probing the former legislator, who held the mining portfolio in the Samajwadi Party government led by Chief Minister Akhilesh Yadav, on money laundering charges in a case linked to alleged possession of disproportionate assets. "There are specific allegations against accused Gayatri Prasad Prajapati that he has expended Rs 2,98,25,511 more against his income from known and legal sources which is exponentially disproportionate while he was working as public servant," the court said.

In addition, there are prima facie evidences of acquiring benami properties by him. All the cash deposits in the bank accounts of his family members and companies wherein they were directors were made on his instance," the court said. It added that "major decisions relating to the affairs of the companies were taken by him and he held a tight control over the day-today affairs of the company." "He was the ultimate beneficiary of the properties so acquired out of proceeds of crime. He attached provisionally by the ED.

use and projections of proceeds of crime generated by him from his misuse of official position as a public servant," the court said in its order.

It said that a "prima facie" case is made out against Prajapati under sections of the PMLA on the basis of "allegations and material on record" brought by the ED. Prajapati was booked early this year by the ED in this money laundering case after analysing an Uttar Pradesh Police vigilance FIR filed against him in on charges of possessing alleged disproportionate assets. He was already being probed by it in a case of illegal mining in Uttar Pradesh. The ED's Lucknow zone joint director Rajeshwar Singh had said during the filing of the charge sheet that investigation in the case was ongoing and more attachment of benami properties are expected and supplementary charge sheets can be filed.

The agency had claimed "Prajapati's total income when he was a minister (between 2013 and 2017) was only Rs 72.38 lakh including his salary of around Rs. 25.40 lakh." "He had shown substantial rental income but most of it was found to be bogus and only to inflate his income." It alleged that the assets "standing in the name of the family members of Prajapati, the benami holders and various companies wherein his sons are/were directors is found to be over Rs 36.94 crore (approx.) which is several times over and above their total purchasing capacity." Prajapati is also accused of raping a woman and attempting to molest her minor daughter along with others. He was arrested and sent to jail on March 15, 2017 and he is in judicial custody at present. Prajapati was also arrested by the ED. Fifty-seven bank accounts having balance of Rs 3.50 crore and 60 immovable properties worth Rs 33.45 crore were also

We assure everybody that this surveyed land does not come under forest land category but falls under unused wasteland, he said.

Khandu further said that as per records, only about 5,000 hectares have been used for oil palm cultivation, most of which are lying abandoned at the moment. With the renewed intention and planning of the Central government, this can be revived for doubling the income of farmers by ensuring an assured market. We are in touch with a few of the erstwhile investors to establish their oil palm factories. We are hopeful that with the incentives being provided by the government now, they will agree to do so, the chief minister said. (PTI)
